PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI

TO THE UTAH SUPREME COURT

To the Honorable, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States:

Park City Utah Corporation, the petitioner herein, prays that a writ of certiorari issue to review the judgment of the Utah Supreme Court entered in the above-entitled case on April 8, 1976 .

OPINION BELOW

The opinion and judgment of the Utah Supreme Court is reported as 548 P.2d 889 and is printed in Appendix A hereto, infra, pages 1 through 5.

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Utah Supreme Court (Appendix A, infra, page 1) was entered on April 8, 1976. A timely petition for rehearing was denied on May 4, 1976, (Appendix A, infra, page 6). The jurisdiction of the United States Supreme Court is invoked under the due process and equal protection clauses of the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

While disregarding the true record before them, the Utah Supreme Court fabricated its own evidence and then invented a non-existent false controversy purportedly between the litigating parties. On such fictional basis said Court applied the law against your petitioner herein depriving the latter of its right to purchase approximately 2000 acres of valuable land.

STATUTE INVOLVED

Petitioner relies on the due process and equal protection clauses of the 14th Amendment in the United States Constitution, to the effect that petitioner was entitled to due process "in the due course of legal proceedings according to those rules and forms which have been established for the protection of private rights "(Rees v. City of Watertown, 86 U.S. 107; Endicott-Johnson Corp. v. Encyclopedia Press, 266 U.S. 285); and, petitioner was likewise entitled to the same and equal protection of said "rules and forms" as applied to all other litigants similarly situated in proceedings before the Utah Supreme Court.

STATEMENT OF CASE

At issue is the interpretation of a certain written Lease and Purchase Agreement, identified in the Utah Supreme Court as "Exhibit 11".

From a lower state court's judgment against petitioner, (the successor of the Lessee under said agreement) the latter appealed to the Utah Supreme Court. The issues were generally divided between a leasehold forfeiture question and the severability of certain land purchase privileges (two options and one first refusal right) running to petitioner. The Utah Supreme Court upheld the lower state court's leasehold forfeiture adjudication, which is not an issue under this petition for a writ of certiorari.

However, said Utah Supreme Court also affirmed the lower state court's judgment, (with one of the five justices dissenting), holding that petitioner's land purchase privileges (two options and one first refusal right) were not severable from the leasehold and were terminated when the lease failed. These three land purchase privileges in favor of petitioner are at issue herein.

In arriving at its decision regarding said land purchase privileges the Utah Supreme Court quotes a provision, purportedly from the aforesaid Exhibit 11, which does not exist (See Appendix A, second quotation, middle of page 5: "Lessee from and after ....." etc.). Appendix B, second paragraph thereof, infra, represents what said Exhibit 11 actually states by disclosing that one-half of the Utah Supreme Court's quotation had been crossed out and handwritten words inserted by respondents in 1967 when the document was originally executed by the parties.

Predicated on the foregoing non-existent evidence, quoted by said Utah Supreme Court, the latter proceeded to invent a wholly ficticious controversy by claiming: "The parties are in sharp disagreement as to the meaning of the just quoted language of the lease..." (Appendix A, page 5, concluding paragraph thereof). The parties have at no time been "in sharp disagreement", nor in any disagreement whatever, concerning that crucial statement from said Exhibit 11. Nowhere does the record indicate the parties failed to recognize the true language used in Exhibit 11 (Appendix B, second paragraph, infra).

Based upon its own erroneous citing of the evidence and a non-existent issue between the litigants herein, the Utah Supreme Court applied the law which resulted in petitioner's loss of its interest in 2000 acres of valuable land.

REASONS FOR GRANTING WRIT

Petitioner agrees with the Utah Supreme Court as to which legal principles are appropriately involved in the instant matter.

Petitioner does not agree that legal "rules and forms" (86 U.S. 107; 266 U.S. 285; supra), which are applied uniformly in not just Utah but also throughout the entire United States and its possessions, can be ignored as to petitioner's cause. Nowhere in such jurisdictions may any court manufacture its own evidence, fabricate a controversy between the litigants and thereupon apply the law as the Utah Supreme Court has done herein.

It is so fundamental that only the litigants can present evidence and the factual issues in civil lawsuits, that further elaboration is unnecessary.

Thus, petitioner has no quarrel as to the Utah Supreme Court's view of the law. However, petitioner is entitled to have said law applied to the true, uncontroverted provisions of the written instrument involved (Appendix B, second paragraph, infra), and not to the improvisation invented by said court (Appendix A, second quotation, middle of page 5, infra.) upon which it based its decision (Appendix A, concluding paragraph, page 5, infra).

CONCLUSION

The very fact that the Utah Supreme Court was apprised of its gross errors in petitioner's Petition for Rehearing and then denied the same out-of-hand (Appendix A, Page 6, infra) even before a reply brief was forthcoming from the respondent herein, indicates a prejudice against your petitioner.

Petitioner respectfully implores this Court to act on its own by: (1) granting the within petition for a writ of certiorari; (2) thereafter, applying the law as spelled out by the Utah Supreme Court in its decision (Appendix A, Page 4, infra); and, (3) applying said law to the clearly expressed actual language agreed upon by the parties to the subject written instrument herein.

Therefore, petitioner urges this Honorable Supreme Court to ultimately reverse or modify the state court's judgment (36 C.J.S. Federal Courts, Section 281, at Page 772) by reviewing the findings of fact herein and applying the appropriate rule of Utah law thereto (United Gas Public Service Co. v. Texas, et al., 303 U.S. 123).

PARK CITY UTAH CORPORATION, et al.,
Defendants and Appellant.

No. 14124

Clerk

CROCKETT, Justice:

Plaintiffs Russell sued to terminate all rights of defendant Park City Utah Corporation in a lease for non-payment of rent. Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment was granted, and defendant appealed. We remanded for trial.[1] From a judgment terminating both the lease and an option to purchase contained therein, defendant appeals, contending that there was no termination of the lease, and that even if there was, the option to purchase did not fall with it.

Defendant's predecessor obtained a ten-year lease with an option to purchase on March 31, 1967. On July 31, 1967, defendant's predecessor subleased the land, located in Summit and Salt Lake Counties, to Robert W. Ensign, who, within the next two or three months, assigned the lease to Ski Park City West, Inc., herein called Park West, which has since been in possession.

The lease covered some 1,987 acres, and called for rental payments of $2.50 per acre per year. Defendant was to develop the land as a ski resort by clearing runs, installing lifts and other facilities. (Plaintiffs reserved the right to graze their sheep on the land every year between May 15 and November 1). The lease contained this provision, in Paragraph VIII, as to the foreiture: "No default of Lessee in any of the provisions hereof shall constitute a basis for forfeiture of this lease unless the same shall continue for more than forty-five (45) days after written notice to Lessee specifying of what the default consists, and in the event Lessee fails to correct said default within such further time as is reasonably necessary to cure same, Lessee shall quit and surrender the premises to Lessor..."

The option to buy provided that the lessee had the exclusive option to buy 35 acres of property at $300 per acre, exercisable before Nov. 15, 1967. After that date, the lessor had the right to sell any part of the land, subject to the lessee's right of first refusal at the same price any third party should offer. Par. VI of the lease provided that the lessees (defendants) would deposit $2,000 with plaintiffs as consideration for the option, in addition to all other covenants in the lease, and that, if the option was not exercised before Nov. 15,1967, the deposit would be applied to the rental payments for 1967. The defendant exercised the option as to part of the land in May, 1967.

The annual rental payments were made for 1967, 1968 and 1969. Late in 1970 a dispute arose between defendant and its sublessee, Park West, as to money owed by the latter to defendant. The defendant instructed Park West to make payments directly to Plaintiffs, but Park West refused. The defendant failed to make the rental payment on Nov. 1, 1970, as required. In February, 1971, the defendant again instructed Park West to make its payments to plaintiffs, and again Park West refused. On March 11, 1971, plaintiffs sent a letter to defendant stating that if the rent was not paid within 45 days, they would declare the lease terminated. In a letter dated March 29, 1971, plaintiffs' attorney reaffirmed the letter of March 11, and set April 26, 1971, (45 days from March 12) as the deadline for payment. The defendant did not meet that demand, but on June 7, 1971, tendered payment which the plaintiffs refused.

It was on those facts that the trial court granted the plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment. We reversed because there were disputes concerning the defendant's receipt of the letter and other circumstances pertaining to the forfeiture. After remand and upon trial, the court found the disputed issues in favor of the plaintiffs and that the lease had been terminated in accordance with its terms.

Defendant now argues that the procedure followed by the plaintiffs, giving it only 45 days to remedy its default, was not in conformity with Par. VIII of the lease quoted above, which gives it the 45 days after written notice, plus "such further time as is reasonably necessary to cure" the default. Under the findings and determination made by the trial court we do not confront the question as posed by the defendant. The notice was received on March 12, 1971, and the trial court found that the defendant made no attempt to pay the rent during the 45 day grace period, or during the following six weeks until the tender of June 7, 1971. The problem here is not what plaintiffs would or should have done if the defendant had made the tender at some earlier time. We are of the opinion that there is a reasonable basis in the evidence for the trial court's finding that the tender was not made within a reasonable time and that the plaintiffs were justified in refusing the tender and terminating the lease.

It is true, as defendant argues, that forfeitures are not favored in the law, and that forfeiture provisions will be strictly construed against the one who seeks to enforce them.[2] But it is also true that parties are free to contract according to their desires in whatever terms they can agree upon; and further, that the contract should be enforced according to its terms, unless that result is so unconscionable that a court of equity will refuse to enforce it. [3] No such circumstances appears to exist here.

The foregoing affirmance of the termination of the lease cuts the foundation out from under the defendant's argument that the plaintiffs had waived their right of forfeiture of the lease by accepting rent from defendant's sublessee, Park West. It is true that the latter had been the sublessee of the defendant and had been in possession of the property practically from the beginning of the lease term.

(2. Green v Palfryman,166 P2d 215; 3. Jacobson v. Swan, 278 P2d 294, Perkins v Spencer,243 P2d 446, and cases cited therein)

Nevertheless, after the lease was terminated as delinated above, the plaintiffs were free to rent the property to Park West or anyone else, as the trial court correctly ruled.

The other aspect of this case relates to the options to purchase given to the lessee (defendant). Par. VI of the lease provided: "Lessors give and grant to Lessee the exclusive option to purchase (35) thirty-five acres of property..This option to purchase shall be exercised by Lessee on or before the 15th day of Nov. 1967...". The defendant did exercise this option as to part of the 35 acres before Nov. 15, 1967. The problem of more critical concern here involved the provision, referred to above, which granted to the defendant the "first right of refusal" to purchase any part of the land during the "entire term" of the lease. We note awareness that what is often called "the right of refusal" is not the same as an option, wherein the optionee has a definite right to purchase, whereas, the right of refusal has no effect until and unless the party granting it (plaintiffs here) decides to sell. If he does so decide, then the right of refusal does become an option in that its possessor has the first opportunity to purchase the property at the price at which the owner will sell to anyone.[4] In this instance, for the purpose of determining whether this right of refusal survived the termination of the lease, we think the same rule applies as that which governs options contained in leases: that is, if by the express terms of the option, it can be seen as independent of the other covenants of the lease, and is supported by a valid consideration, it can continue in existence not withstanding the lease's termination.[5]

There are two provisions of the lease which have a bearing on the problem. Paragraph VI of the lease reads:

> " As a further consideration for the above option, and other privileges to purchase hereinafter recited, and in addition to the other cov-

(4. Chournos v. Evona Investment Co.,93 P2d 450;
5. Prout v. Roby, 82 U.S.(15 Wall) 471; generally, 10 ALR 2d 884, Anno...Tenant's Option to Purchase)

> enants and conditions contained in this agreement, Lessee agrees and herewith deposits with Lessors the sum of $2000.00 cash....."

To be considered in connection with the foregoing is the provision of the next paragraph, No. VII, which states:

> "Lessee from and after the 1st day of November, 1968, has the irrevocable right to purchase all or a portion of the subject property not theretofore purchased by Lessee from Lessors...said right of purchase to remain in existence during the entire term of the lease."[All emphasis herein added].

The parties are in sharp disagreement as to the meaning of the just quoted language of lease, particularly the emphasized portion. Defendant's position is that the covenant that the right of purchase shall exist "during the entire term of the lease" is a severable covenant, supported by separate consideration, and exists independently of the other provisions of lease for the entire 10 year term thereof. Whereas, plaintiff contend to the contrary and that it was intended as an integral part of the total composite of the lease; and when the lease was forfeited and terminated, this covenant fell with it. In view of the lack of certainty in the language of lease, the trial court was justified in admitting extraneous evidence as to what was intended.[6] This was done and on disputed evidence, the court found in accordance with plaintiffs' position as just stated. AFFIRMED. Costs to plaintiffs (respondents).

WE CONCUR: F. Henri Henroid, Chief Justice; A.H. Ellett, Justice; R.L. Tuckett, Justice.

DISSENTING: Maughan, Justice....Given the language of Par.VI of lease, that the $2000 cash was further consideration for option, and in addition to the other covents, I am of the opinion that the covenant controlling the option was independent; and thus not dependent on the subsistence of the lease.

BRIEF OPPOSING WRIT OF CERTIORARI

TO THE UTAH SUPREME COURT

To the Honorable, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States:

(a) Opinion Below

Russell v. Park City Utah Corporation, 548 P.2d 889 (Utah, 1976).

(b) Jurisdiction

Petitioner has failed to cite any statute under which the Court may have jurisdiction. This failure is a ground for dismissal of the Petition for Certiorari under Supreme Court Rule 23(4), See, Supreme Court Rule 23(1)(b)(iii).

(c) Constitutional Provisions Involved

United States Constitution, Amendment 14, §1". . . No State shall . . . deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction equal protection of the laws."

(d) Question Presented for Review

Did the Utah Supreme Court deny due process or equal protection of the laws to petitioner?

(e) Statement of the Case

The trial court below entered findings of fact, conclusions of law, and judgment, Appendix at 1, holding a certain lease to have been terminated and holding certain rights in the nature of an option to purchase real estate were inseparable from the lease and hence also terminated. Thereafter, Petitioner appealed to the Utah Supreme Court which affirmed the judgment of the trial court. In reciting some of the facts of the case in its opinion, the Utah Supreme Court quoted a clause from the lease without supplying some of the changes which had been added in handwriting by the parties to the lease. Petitioner complained of this misquotation in its petition for rehearing before the Utah Supreme Court which was denied. Petitioner now contends that the Utah Supreme Court deliberately falsified the record by its misquotation of the Exhibit involved and that the misquotation in the opinion denied Petitioner due process or equal protection.

(f) Argument

I THERE IS NO BASIS OTHER THAN THE CONCLUSORY ALLEGATIONS OF THE PETITION FOR PETITIONER'S CLAIM THAT THE UTAH SUPREME COURT IS GUILTY OF MISCONDUCT.

The petition for certiorari contains some rather strong charges of misbehavior on the part of the Utah Supreme Court, which allegedly "fabricated its own evidence and then invented a non-existent false controversy. . . . On such fictional basis said Court applied the law against your petitioner . . . ." Petition at 2. There is no showing that the Utah court deliberately misquoted the exhibit in question, that it was motivated by any improper considerations to the prejudice or injury of petitioner, that the difference in language was material or that petitioner was in anyway prejudiced or injured by the misquotations. Petitioner has not formally objected to any member of the court by means of affidavit of prejudice. See, Utah Const., Article VIII, §13; Utah Code Ann. §78-7-1 (1953); See, Haslam v. Morrison, 113 Utah 14, 190 P.2d 520 (1948).

The charge that the Utah court's denial of a rehearing shows prejudice is without any foundation of fact. Utah Rules of Civil Procedure 76(e), governing rehearings, does not require an answer brief to the petition for rehearing. Petitioner does not show any discrimination against it by the court below in its ruling.

The trial court heard petitioner's claims about the lease and received Exhibit 11, into evidence, complete with all the handwritten changes. Based on a full and complete hearing, the trial court held that the option created by the paragraph in question had been terminated with the rest of the lease of which it was a part. On appeal, the Utah Supreme Court affirmed the finding involved. The opinion is clear as to the decision reached by the Utah Supreme Court. A negotiation appearing in the opinion would not justify a review by this Court of the basis of the decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Utah, particularly where the Court itself did not consider the printing error to be sufficient formally to correct the quoted language.

As a consequence of this lack of support for the allegations of misconduct of the Utah court, it appears that the claims of petitioner are overstated. There is no basis for Petitioners cavalier assertion that the Court "fabricated its own evidence and then invented a non-existent false controversy". A reading of the Utah Supreme Court's decision makes it abundantly clear that such decision was not based on any fabrication of evidence. The decision sustains a finding of the trial court which in turn was based on conflicting evidence. In such a situation, all the court needs do is affirm on the basis of Utah Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 72(a), (Review limited to questions of law) and Rule 61 (harmless error).

II IF THE PETITION FOR CERTIORARI IS TO BE INTERPRETED AS CHARGING NOT DELIBERATE MISCONDUCT OF THE UTAH SUPREME COURT BUT MERELY THAT THE UTAH COURT, ACTING IN GOOD FAITH BUT MISTAKENLY, MISQUOTED AN EXHIBIT IN ITS OPINION, THERE IS NO FEDERAL QUESTIONS PRESENTED.

In any event, misquoting an exhibit does not constitute a denial of due process. The Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution does not assure immunity against judicial error. Worcester County Trust Co. v. Riley, 302 U.S. 298, 299 (1937); Jones v. Buffalo Creek Coal and Coke Co., 245 U.S. 328, 329 (1917); Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co. v. Wisconsin ex rel. City of Milwaukee, 252 U.S. 100, 106 (1920); Central Land Co. v. Laidley

Rees v. City of Watertown, 86 U.S. (19 Wall.) 107 (1874) do nothing to establish a federal question in the contentions presented by the petition. The Endicott Johnson case involved the constitutionality of a New York post-judgment garnishment statute against an attack by a garnishee, in which this court made some general remarks about due process, as requiring "a course of legal proceedings according to those rules and principles which have been established in our system of jurisprudence for the protection and enforcement of private rights." 266 U.S. 285, 288 (1924). Petitioner has pointed to no denial of notice, opportunity for hearing, or considered decision in the proceedings below, nor to any other rules or principles of jurisprudence which were violated by the proceedings below on a constitutional scale. The City of Watertown case involved a dispute over the power of the court to impose a tax by court order, or collect a municipal obligation by means of execution against the municipal citizens' personal assets. The strictures of due process figured in the court's reasoning as it held that the court could neither impose a tax nor issue the requested execution, in part because mandamus was a complete legal remedy and in part because execution against personal assets of the citizens would deny affected persons a hearing. In the case below, there is no contention that the Utah court denied anyone a fair hearing, or improperly created a remedy where the legal remedy was complete.

(g) Conclusion

In complaining of a misquotation from an exhibit, petitioner exhibits pique at having lost below but fails to show a federal question not previously passed on by this Court or with respect to which the decision below is probably not in accord with the previous decisions of this Court, as required by Supreme Court Rule 19. Certain allegations of misconduct by the Utah court offered by Petitioner lack foundation in the record and indeed lack credibility and should not trouble this Court. The petition for writ of certiorari should be denied.

E. A. RUSSELL and MARTELL E. RUSSELL, Plaintiffs, v. PARK CITY UTAH CORPORATION, et al, Defendants.	FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW Case No. 4194

The within action came on for trial before the Honorable Allen B. Sorensen, Judge of the above entitled Court, on December 12, 1974, in Provo, Utah. Plaintiffs were represented by Arthur H. Nielsen and Bruce Findlay and Plaintiff E. A. Russell was personally present during the hearing. The Defendant corporation was represented by Don R. Strong. Evidence, both testimonial and documentary, was introduced and opportunity was given counsel to file written memoranda of their legal arguments. Based on the evidence and arguments, the Court makes and enters the following findings of fact and conclusions of law:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Defendant Park City Utah Corporation is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Utah.

2. On or about March 31, 1967, Plaintiffs executed with the Defendant Major-Blakeney Corporation a certain lease agreement covering certain property situate in the counties of Summit and Salt Lake, State of Utah, consisting of approximately 2,000 acres and more particularly described as follows:

Township 1 South, Range 3 East, Salt Lake Base & Meridian.

The East half (E 1/2) of Section 22; and

The West half of the Northwest quarter (W 1/2 NW 1/4), the South west quarter (SW 1/4), the West half of the Southeast quarter (W 1/2 SE 1/4), the Southeast quarter of Southeast quarter (SE 1/4 SE 1/4) of Section 26; and

The Southeast quarter (SE 1/4) of Section 27; and

All of Section 35; and

The East half (E 1/2) of Section 34; and

The West half of the Southwest quarter (W 1/2 SW 1/4), the Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter (SE 1/4 SW 1/4) of Section 36; and

Beginning at a point N89° 47' E 2543.22 feet from the West quarter corner of Section 27, T. 1 S., R 3 E., SLM, Utah, thence running South 4568.66 feet, South 43° 15' West 328.70 feet; North 49° 51' West 659.34 feet; North 88°11' West 1162.26 feet; North 75°48' West 289.74 feet; South 79° 47' West 374.88 feet, South 948.1 feet, more or less, to the West quarter corner of Section 34, T. 1 S., R. 3 E., SLM, Utah, East 2640 feet, more or less, to the center of said Section 34; thence North 5280 feet, more or less, to the center of Section 27, T. 1 S., R. 3 E., SLM, Utah; thence South 89° 47' West 96.78 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning (containing 62.07 acres, more or less)

Containing a total of 1,982.07 acres, more or less.

3. Thereafter, on or about June 26, 1968, the Defendant Major-Blakeney Corporation assigned and transferred to Defendant Park City Utah Corporation all interest which the said Major-Blakeney Corporation had in and to said lease and purchase agreement. Said assignment provided that thereafter all notices which would have previously been directed to The Major-Blakeney Corporation be directed to Park at the following address: 1610 Walker Bank Building, Salt Lake City, Utah.

4. Under and pursuant to the provisions of the lease and purchase agreement, Defendants were required to pay to the Plaintiffs the sum of $2.50 per acre for the acreage leased, making total payment of $4,855.20 payable on or before the first day of November of each year.

5. Defendants failed and refused to pay the annual rental due and owing on November 1, 1970, for the period March 1, 1970, through February 28, 1971, in the amount of $4,855.20; and Plaintiffs thereafter made repeated demands on Defendants to pay, which demands were ignored.

6. Finally, on March 11, 1971, Plaintiffs sent written notice to Defendants at 1610 Walker Bank Building, Salt Lake City, Utah, to the effect that unless said rent was paid on or before 45 days from receipt of said notice, the lease would be considered to be terminated and cancelled. The notice further provided that the lessors claimed liquidated damages of $2,500.00, pursuant to the provisions of the lease agreement.

7. The notice described in the preceding paragraph was received at the address designated on March 12, 1971, by Lala Gallegos, an employee of William Richards, then attorney for Defendants. Lala Gallegos was authorized to receive notices for Defendants; and said notice was properly given as required by said lease and assignment.

8. Notwithstanding the notice of Defendants, Defendants did not pay the rent during the 45-day grace period provided by the contract, nor did Defendants pay or offer to pay any rent within six weeks after the expiration of the 45-day grace period.

9. Defendants finally, on June 7, 1971, sent a letter through their attorney tendering the sum of $4,855.18 for the rent. Said tender was insufficient in amount and beyond a reasonable time from the end of said grace period of 45 days.

10. Defendants did not have any valid reason or excuse for not paying the rent when the same became due, nor was there any justifiable reason for not making said rental payment within the 45-day period between March 12 and April 26, 1971.

11. No rental payment was ever received by the Plaintiffs for the lease year running from March 1, 1970, to February 28, 1971. Under their contract with Defendants, Plaintiffs were entitled to $4,855.20 as lease rental for that period. Plaintiff diligently sought to collect the rent payment when due without success, and the cancellation and termination of the lease was properly effected.

12. Said lease agreement further provided that lessee had an option to purchase said property during the term of said lease. There was no separate consideration paid for this option of purchase, and said option was an integral part of the lease and not severable from it so that the cancellation and termination of said lease terminated and cancelled said option to purchase.

13. Plaintiffs did not waive the prompt payment of the rental payment and did not permit the rental payment to be made annually in the spring of the year following the November 1 date on which the said rent was due as alleged in Defendants' answer and counterclaim. Also, Plaintiffs' refusal of the tender of rent on June 7, 1971, was not in contravention of the terms of the lease between the parties.

14. With respect to the second cause of action set forth in said counterclaim, the Defendants alleged that after filing the within action, Plaintiffs had leased the property which formed the subject matter of the dispute to Life Resources, Inc., a California corporation which substantially owns Ski Park City West, Inc., the assignee of the rights and obligations of Robert W. Ensign. Said Robert W. Ensign had allegedly been the sublessee of Defendants as to the property forming the subject matter of the dispute prior to cancellation of Defendants' lease. The Defendants did not, however, make Life Resources or Ski Park City West, Inc., or other corporations allegedly involved, parties to the within lawsuit and failed to present proof supporting any claim under the second cause of action of their amended counterclaim.

15. The lease involved did not contain any privileges in favor of the lessees which were severable from the lease itself; and the termination of the lease by Plaintiffs terminated all rights of the Defendants in and to the property.

16. Plaintiffs have failed to prove that they are entitled to recover liquidated damages as provided in said lease.

From the foregoing Findings of Fact, the Court concludes as follows:

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. The lease was properly terminated by Plaintiffs.

2. Plaintiffs are entitled to a judgment adjudging said lease and the option to purchase therein contained to be of no further force or effect with respect to the following described property:

Township 1 South, Range 3 East, Salt Lake Base & Meridian.

The East half (E 1/2) of Section 22; and

The West half of the Northwest quarter (W 1/2 NW 1/4), the Southwest quarter (SW 1/4), the West half of the Southeast quarter (W 1/2 SE 1/4), the Southeast quarter of Southeast quarter (SE 1/4 SE 1/4) of Section 26; and

The Southeast quarter (SE 1/4) of Section 27; and

All of Section 35; and

The East half (E 1/2) of Section 34; and

The West half of the Southwest quarter (W 1/2 SW 1/4), the Southeast quarter of the Southwest quarter (SE 1/4 SE 1/4) of Section 36; and

Beginning at a point N89° 74' E 2543.22 feet from the West quarter corner of Section 27, T. 1 S., R 3 E., SLM, Utah, thence running South 4568.66 feet, South 43° 15' West 328.70 feet; North 49°51' West 659.34 feet; North 88°11' West 1162.26 feet; North 75°48' West 289.74 feet; South 79° 47' West 374.88 feet, South 948.1 feet, more or less, to the

West quarter corner of Section 34, T. 1 S., R. 3 E., SLM, Utah, East 2640 feet, more or less, to the center of Section 27, T. 1 S., R. 3 E., SLM, Utah; thence South 89° 47' West 96.78 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning (containing 62.07 acres, more or less)

Containing a total of 1,982.07 acres, more or less.

3. Said judgment should not provide for the recovery of liquidated damages by Plaintiffs.

4. Plaintiffs are entitled to judgment on Defendants' counterclaim; and said counterclaim should be dismissed with prejudice.
